

First Rotation 2014/2015: Individual Paper Review 1

Deadline: Wednesday 20th February 2014, 5pm. Please submit your work to the course organisers by this date via the upload link on the moodle course webpage.

You are asked to submit a written review of one of the eleven papers from the first rotation. This can be any of the papers that were presented.

Your review should:

- Give a brief summary of the paper,
- Identify which are the key results,
- Identify which are the key limitations, and give for improvements,
- Identify the relevance of the paper in its field and where possible, reflect upon the contemporary literature,
- In the case of older papers (i.e. older than about 10 years), it is expected that some discussion of their subsequent impact should be present.

Marks will be given for:

- The content of the review,
- Evidence of wider reading,
- Discussion of the papers impact & importance,
- Organisation of ideas,
- Clarity of expression.

You should aim not to exceed 1000 words.
